

Celebrating a true leader and public servant of Trinidad and Tobago

Doddridge H.N. Alleyne
1927 - 2010

Doddridge H.N. Alleyne was a shining example of dedication and loyalty to the development of Trinidad and Tobago in the post-Independence era. He was the first Head of the Public Service and Permanent Secretary to the late Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. Eric E. Williams, as well as Permanent Representative of Trinidad and Tobago's United Nations Mission.

As one of the pioneers of the Energy Sector, he served as Chairman of the Trinidad and Tobago Oil Company, the National Energy Corporation and the Point Lisas Industrial Port Development Corporation Limited.

He set the standard for excellence wherever he went and, as a good leader, he always inspired and developed those under his charge into competent professionals.

We, at the National Gas Company of Trinidad and Tobago Limited, celebrate his contributions to the growth and development of our world-class energy sector and the legacy he left for our future generations.
